INTRODUCTION

The 2nd IPD Rome Conference, organized by the Centro Psicoanalitico di Roma, endorsement Società Psicoanalitica Italiana (SPI), International Psychoanalytical Association (IPA) and Neuropsychanalysis Association (NPSA) will address the current understanding about memory embodiment. We know that memories are not fixed, they are alive and breathing and they interact with current context, subjective meaning, individual history, and intrapersonal influence. Memory has an extensive role in modelling emotion, thoughts, and somatic experience for each person. The vast majority of changes in Psychoanalysis and Psychotherapy are related to processes of construction / deconstruction of memory; what kind of memory is involved in stable changes? We know that when the explicit memory system for some reasons doesn't work, the implicit memory system remembers the emotion. Is it related to bodily remembering? During states of amnesia, implicit emotional learning continues to function and drive responses, far from awareness, which shows that people never become free from past experiences. Memories shape the Self building up our personal history. Did embodied memories affect this shaping? And how are they connected with pathological processes, in case of somatic illness? Leading neuroscientists Kachele, Tsakiris and Turnbull will introduce the most recent theories on plasticity of embodiment and emotional memories in amnesia and psychosomatics. As our distinctive format, three Italian Psychoanalysts will present extensive clinical material to be discussed within the framework of the theoretical papers.
